In Cradle of Communism to Catacomb of Capitalism, award-winning journalist Anne Applebaum tells the story of this region's tumultuous past and uncertain future. Through firsthand accounts and meticulous research, she uncovers the hidden stories of those who lived under communist rule and the challenges they faced in the post-communist era.

Applebaum begins her journey in Poland, where the communist regime was first established in 1945. She meets with former dissidents and Solidarity activists who fought for freedom and democracy. She also visits the Auschwitz-Birkenau concentration camp, a grim reminder of the horrors of communism.

From Poland, Applebaum travels to other countries in Eastern Europe, including Hungary, the Czech Republic, Slovakia, and Romania. She talks to people from all walks of life, from factory workers to farmers to intellectuals. She hears their stories of hardship, resilience, and hope.

Applebaum's book is a powerful indictment of communism. She shows how this ideology led to the deaths of millions of people and the destruction of entire societies. She also shows how the legacy of communism continues to haunt Eastern Europe today.

But Cradle of Communism to Catacomb of Capitalism is not just a story of despair. It is also a story of hope. Applebaum meets with young people who are working to build a better future for their countries. She sees signs of progress, even in the most troubled places.
