Early Life and Basketball Roots

Kevin Wayne Durant was born on September 29, 1988, in Washington, D.C. His parents, Wanda and Wayne Pratt, instilled in him a strong work ethic and a deep love for basketball from a young age. Durant's extraordinary height and impressive athleticism became apparent early on, and he quickly developed into a standout player.

High School and College Career

Durant attended Montrose Christian School in Maryland, where he led his team to four consecutive state championships. His exceptional talent earned him national recognition and a scholarship to the University of Texas. In his one year with the Longhorns, Durant averaged 25.8 points per game and was named the Big 12 Player of the Year.

NBA Draft and Early Career

In the 2007 NBA Draft, Durant was selected second overall by the Seattle SuperSonics. He quickly made an impact in the league, averaging over 20 points per game as a rookie. Durant's exceptional versatility and smooth shooting motion made him a formidable scorer and playmaker.

Oklahoma City Thunder: A Dynamic Duo

In 2008, the SuperSonics relocated to Oklahoma City, forming the Thunder. Durant formed a powerful partnership with Russell Westbrook, creating one of the most dynamic duos in NBA history. Together, they led the Thunder to multiple Western Conference Finals and an appearance in the 2012 NBA Finals.

Throughout his career, Durant has consistently been one of the most prolific scorers in the league. He has won four NBA scoring titles and holds the Thunder's franchise record for most points scored in a single game (54).
