Eliza Hof: A Pioneer Woman of Faith and Courage

Eliza Roxcy Snow Hof was born in 1821 in Massachusetts and joined the LDS Church in 1835. A devout and intelligent woman, she became a close confidante of Church leaders, including Joseph Smith and Brigham Young. Hof's remarkable life journey took her from the bustling streets of Nauvoo to the isolated settlements of the Utah Territory.

As a plural wife of Heber C. Kimball, Hof witnessed firsthand the complexities and challenges of Mormon polygamy. Her experiences, both joyful and painful, add depth and authenticity to her account of early LDS history.
