The Hadhads traveled for months, enduring hardship and danger at every turn. They were finally granted asylum in Canada in 2015.

In their new home, the Hadhads have rebuilt their lives. They have learned a new language, found jobs, and made new friends. But they have also faced challenges. They have had to deal with the trauma of war, the challenges of adjusting to a new culture, and the racism and discrimination that many refugees face.

Despite the challenges they have faced, the Hadhads have never given up hope. They are grateful for the opportunity to live in Canada and they are determined to make the most of their new life.

The Hadhad family's story is one of hope, resilience, and the enduring power of family. It is a story that will inspire you to never give up on your dreams, no matter how difficult the journey may seem.
