Born in 1962 in a small coastal town in England, Shanes' passion for the sea began at an early age. He spent countless hours exploring the rock pools and beaches, marveling at the intricate details and ever-changing moods of the ocean.

Shanes' formal art education took him to the prestigious Royal Academy of Arts in London, where he honed his skills and developed his unique artistic style. His influences include the great masters of landscape painting, such as J.M.W. Turner and Claude Monet, as well as contemporary artists like David Hockney and Peter g.

Turner Eric Shanes' Artistic Style

Shanes' seascapes are characterized by their vibrant colors and expressive brushstrokes. He uses a palette of blues, greens, and whites to capture the depth and movement of the ocean, often juxtaposed with bold accents of gold, orange, and red.

His brushstrokes are both delicate and powerful, creating a sense of energy and emotion in his paintings. He often uses layering techniques to build up the texture of the sea, adding depth and dimension to his works.

Shanes' paintings are not merely representations of the ocean; they are an expression of his own emotional connection to the sea. He captures the raw power of crashing waves, the tranquility of calm seas, and the solitude of windswept coastlines.
